LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 14

THE JUDGMENT OF THE NATIONS.

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 25:31-46.

GOLDEN TEXT—For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ.—II Cor. 5:10.

The subject selected by the lesson committee is "The Future Life," but at best such a statement would be the use of the term in an accommodated sense. According to legitimate textual and contextual signification it is the judgment of the living nations which lies still in the future (v. 32). The idea of a general judgment which is of such frequent occurrence in religious literature and teaching is a fundamental error. It is not once found in the Bible, neither the idea which it is intended to convey. Doctor Pentecost most distinctively says, "It is a mischievous habit that has led the Christian world to speak of the judgment as being one great event taking place at the end of the world, when all human beings, saints, sinners, Jews and Gentiles, the living and the dead, shall stand up before the great white throne and there be judged. Nothing can be more wide of the Scriptures." The Bible speaks of different judgments, differing in respect to the subjects to be judged, the place of judgment, the time of judgment and the result of the judgment. This is not the judgment set forth in Revelation 20:11-14, but precedes that one at least one thousand years.

I. The Judge (v. 31.).

It is the Son of Man, the one who came and died to redeem the human race, and who now being clothed with majesty and power will act as Judge. Those who accept him now shall not come into the judgment (John 5:24).

II. The Time (v. 31).

This will be when the Lord comes in his glory, accompanied by a retinue of glorious angels. This will take place after he has gathered the elect remnant of Israel. There will be no resurrection in connection with this judgment.

III. The Place (v. 31).

It will be on his glorious throne. This throne will be most surely in the land of Israel. The Prophecy of Joel, third chapter, and Zechariah 14:1-5, seems it to be in or near Jerusalem. The angel said to Mary, "Thou shalt call his name Jesus: he shall be great and shall be called the son of the highest; and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David; and he shall reign over the house of Jacob forever, and of his kingdom there shall be no end." (Luke 1:31-33). Just as there was a literal place and a literal king there shall be a literal throne.

IV. The People Judged (vv. 32-45).

These will be the living nations upon the earth after the church has been translated (I Thess. 4:16, 17). These are the nations to whom the gospel of the kingdom shall be preached, just prior to the coming of the end. "And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations and then shall the end come" (Matt. 24:14). This gospel is distinguished from the gospel of the grace of God which is now being preached. The preachers of this gospel will be Jews (Rev. 7 and Rom. 11). These are the brethren in the flesh of the Lord, they that move among the nations of the world with the startling message of the news of the Lord's approaching kingdom. Some of the nations will gladly receive the message and most kindly receive the king's messengers, giving them clothing, food, shelter, etc. Others will persecute them, thrusting them into prison, etc. Here the former will visit these messengers of the king and provide for their wants. At this time the judge will separate the nations, placing the sheep on the right and the goats on the left. The "sheep" are those who have been given proper treatment to Christ's brethren. The goats are those who rejected and ill-treated his brethren. If these three classes, the "sheep," "goats," "brethren," be kept separate all confusion will be avoided.

V. The Issue of the Judgment. (v. 46. cf. 24-41).

1. The sheep enter upon the inheritance of a prepared kingdom (v. 34).

2. The goats go into an everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels (v. 41). This judgment shall determine their destiny.

The Secret of Comfort.

The chief secret of comfort lies in not suffering trifles to vex us, and in prudently cultivating our undergrowth of small pleasures, since very few great ones exist; alas! are let on long leases.—Sharp.

Love Thy Neighbors.

I would tear out my own heart if it had as better disposition than to love only myself, and laugh at all my neighbors.—Pope.

Live by the Day.

The secret of a sweet and Christian life is learning to live by the day. It is the long stretches that tire us.

A Hope Begun.

Immortality does not consist of an argument completed, but of a hope begun.—Newell Dwight Hillis.

For nose bleed, roll a piece of soft paper quite hard and pack hard between the upper lip and the gum, and in a few minutes the bleeding will stop.

Profitable Poultry Culture

One of the most practical talks given at the Virginia State Farmers' Institute convention at Blacksburg was that of Mr. A. F. Treakle, a plain poultryman who handles poultry with a single eye to profit therefrom. He said that one-tenth of the money that comes to the farmer comes through the poultry yard; and that this comes mostly at a loss to the farmer. Many hens loss from $1 to $1.50 a year.

Mr. Treakle said that in no line of industry was it more true to say that what is worth doing at all is worth doing well. The real money that comes in from poultry comes from eggs, and money only comes from eggs in the winter time. If hens do not lay during the winter it is not the fault of the neighbor, the church, nor even the supervisor. It is the fault of the owner of the hens.

There are only three things between success and failure so far as poultry are concerned. The hen must be comfortable in cold weather, and it must have air and sunlight; it must be hatched early enough in the spring to develop eggs by fall. There can be no money in old hens except perhaps for breeding purposes, hence farmers must depend upon their pullets for profit. There can be no possible profit anywhere else in the poultry yard. The pullets will lay in December, January, February and March if properly handled and cared for. The keeping of poultry must be a business proposition, pure and simple, hence the time to sell eggs is when they are high.

The third prerequisite for profitable poultry keeping is in the feed. Corn is commonly the chief feed given to poultry, yet at any season and at nearly any price, corn is the most expensive feed for productive birds. It produces yolks out of all proportion to whites, hence wheat must needs be added and then a mash of bran and middlings. After these comes meat, meal, tankage, scraps, sour milk and buttermilk. The latter is the best of all foods. And then it would be well to feed the hen sometimes making her forget that it is winter and imagine spring had come. Sow cabbage and turnips now for use in December—do not let anyone fool the poultry-keeper as to the value of turnips as poultry feed.

It is possible for anyone to take pencil and paper and prove himself rich through poultry-raising. But such schemes never pan out as expected. On the other hand every farmer out to have from 100 to 200 hens; these properly cared for would pay the grocery bill and even the shoe bill for the family in spite of the high cost of leather.

And it is just as easy to raise and care for a bunch of good chickens as to care for scrubs—which he for one would not have around, simply because they were utterly profitless in every way.

Three Clerks in 136 Years

Three county clerks have served Fluvanna county in 136 years. William Selater, who has decided not to again be a candidate for re election, has been the county clerk continuously since 1875—44 years. His immediate predecessor was Abram Shepherd, Jr., who likewise served 44 years, having been first elected in 1831. He succeeded John Timberlake, who was in office for 48 years, from 1788 to 1831.

The county since its organization in 1777 has had only four county clerks, the first one having been John Cobbs.

Things Tractors Don't Do

It will not bite, balk or run away. It will not shy at a loose scrap of paper in the road. It will not kick in the stall all night and keep the tired farmer and his wife awake. It will not crib the manger.

It will not break out of the barn at night, jump the fence and eat your neighbor's cabbages.

It will not lie down in a particularly moist spot in the barnyard, roll over on its back and elevate its four feet into the air.

It does not have to be curried, sponged off or treated with horse liniment.

It is not addicated to colic, cough, heaves, spavin or wind gall.

It will not snort in your ear or whisk its tail in your face.

It will not "haw" when you tell it to "gee" or vice-versa.

You do not have to pull on the lines and holler your head off when you want it to stop.

It does not "up and die" just as the spring work is coming on.

Health About Gone

Many thousands of women suffering from womanly trouble, have been benefited by the use of Cardui, the woman's tonic, according to letters we receive, similar to this one from Mrs. Z. V. Spell, of Hayne, N. C. "I could not stand on my feet, and just suffered terribly," she says. "As my suffering was so great, and he had tried other remedies, Dr. —— had us get Cardui. I began improving, and it cured me. I know, and my doctor knows, what Cardui did for me, for my nerves and health were about gone."

She writes further: "I am in splendid health . . . can do my work. I feel I owe it to Cardui, for I was in dreadful condition." If you are nervous, run-down and weak, or suffer from headache, backache, etc., every month, try Cardui. Thousands of women praise this medicine for the good it has done them, and many physicians who have used Cardui successfully with their women patients, for years, endorse this medicine. Think what it means to be in splendid health, like Mrs. Spell. Give Cardui a trial.

Do You Know?

There are more than 10,000 unfortunate, helpless, homeless and neglected little children in Virginia; good children with good blood; without an opportunity; without a home, who can be saved; who should be saved; who will be saved if each of us will do our part. These children will either be saved into good homes, or eventually gathered into our jails, penitentiary or insane asylums, as has been seen already by those who are working in this particular field or labor.

The reasons why there are so many unfortunate children in this state at this time are because of the late war, followed by the epidemic of influenza, which took away scores of parents, and leaving hundreds of helpless children; also misfortune, sin and death. Heretofore, a few people by small contributions have helped save some of Virginia's children. Now, each individual is being called on to send their offerings at once that all of these children may be saved. To do this, a Receiving Home is needed in the cities of Roanoke and Richmond because they are the geographical locations for handling these children. This need has been discovered through years of labor and sacrifice on the part of a band of faithful workers known as the Children's Home Society of Virginia, with Headquarters at present at No. 30 North Seventh Street, Richmond, Virginia. Up to the present time the Society has gathered up, aided and homed more than 2,500 of these Virginia children, and last year they handled 1,640 children in twelve months, but there is an army of little ones scattered broadcast over the state in distress, poverty and rags without a voice or a vocabulary with which to call. The rigors of winter are fast approaching. This Society has asked for funds with which to build. They have a temporary home now, but it is overcrowded, and they are forced to turn away scores and hundreds of these little children each year. The work is supported entirely by voluntary contributions.

Do you know how long it will be before they may have to come for your child or children? Do you know what it means to have a home? Do you know what it means to be without a home? Do you know the pangs of hunger? Do you know what it means to crouch in a corner with nothing but rags to cover you, and no fire to keep you warm? Do you know that this is innocence, purity and virtue at stake?

They have asked for $150,000 with which to provide shelters for these children. They have plead for these funds and report that up to date twenty four cities and counties have failed to send them a penny; fifty three cities and counties have reported less than half the amount asked for; eleven cities and counties have sent more than half and only twenty two cities and counties have raised the amount asked for! Is it possible Virginia can send her millions across the water to save other little children, as well as men and women, but will not save these thousands of little children at her doors. Remember they are not the riff raff and off scouring of the earth. They are innocent, pure and helpless, and the bulk of them will remain so if gathered up in time, and placed in carefully selected homes, as this Society is doing.

This is a special appeal from this paper in behalf of these little children. Today—at once—now—before you have forgotten it, prepare and send the largest offering possible, writing plainly your name and address, so that receipts can be sent you, to No 30 N. Seventh Street, Richmond Virginia, to Rev. C E Pleasants, General Chairman, of this Society

This appeal is not only to each individual man, woman or child who can and will help, but is also to every church, every lodge, every society and every other organization with in reach. There seems to the writer to be no excuse for this vast army of children in this enlightened day and in this God blessed state to have to remain as they are It seems a blot on the escutcheon of this old Commonwealth that should be speedily removed.

A Democratic Loss

A gentleman by the name of Swope was elected to Congress the other day from the Eighth Kentucky district That simple announcement is of no special interest, but the fact that Mr Swope is a Republican and was elected from a district that for thirty years has been represented by a Democrat is worthy of mention. It is a hint to the Democrats that they are not holding their own politically and that thousands of people are looking to the Republican party for relief from their present day burdens We are frank to say that we do not believe the Republican party has a remedy for existing conditions, and that the people will see if they return the grand old party to power with this end in view. It has been the policy for years and years for the party in power to suffer for the sins of omission and comission, and the Republicans are attempting to show that the Democrats can not manage the county successfully They point to the excessive tax burden, the high cost of living and the continuation of useless departments following the close of the war This is only natural, yet at the same time the Democrats must sit up and take notice Mr. Swope's election adds to the Republican majority in Congress and makes it necessary for the Democrats of this district to get together, perfect a good organization and next year nominate a Democrat who will be able to reclaim that district.—C. Various Falls.

"Fall in" is an old military command, originating in the idea of giving up individuality, and becoming part of the military machine, when in line. Fall means more than "tumble," as for instance, "to fall from grace," "to fall asleep," "befall," etc. It is also used in the sense of classifying "to fall into place," which may give the derivation desired.
